Homeless mothers, disenfranchised youth, and you

Dear Friend,

On behalf of everyone at CJCJ, I want to thank you. Our expertise as practitioners, educators, and researchers creates a unique and strong platform from which to promote long-term public safety and change lives, but we could not do it without you.

Please consider giving \$5 or more by Dec. 31 to support our work in 2013 as we provide needed programs and advocacy to serve our most vulnerable populations. We truly appreciate your continued support and interest in our work.

Have a safe and happy holiday season!

Sincerely,

Daniel Macallair
Executive Director

:: IN THE COMMUNITY 24/7 ::

We serve San Francisco's most vulnerable and high-needs youth and adults in the community 24-hours, 7-days a week. For example, this year Cameo House provided transitional housing for over 18 mothers returning to San Francisco from county jails and state prisons, and their 23 children.

Your contribution of \$5 or more will help us provide a safe residence for formerly incarcerated, homeless mothers and their young children, as they transition back into the San Francisco community.

:: EMPOWERING COUNTIES, EMPOWERING YOUTH ::

CJCJ staff provide information on model justice practices to all stakeholders in the system. This year, our juvenile justice services staff presented practical information on wraparound services to over 30 practitioners, at Sierra Health Foundation's Speakers Series.

You can help - Support our experts as they assist jurisdictions statewide to implement community based programming and change youth's lives.

:: FIGHTING JUSTICE BY GEOGRAPHY ::

Our policy team produced data-driven publications that supported over 20 justice reform policy initiatives. This year we tackled issues regarding:

- Sentencing reform
- School discipline policies
- Uneven application of adult court transfers
- Inefficiencies of three-strikes
- Reasons for the incredible youth crime decline
- San Francisco's racially disparate arrest practices

Donate now to help us educate California policymakers on creating a fair and equitable system of justice so that where you live no longer determines your treatment under the law.
